Checklist for Making a Bona Fide Offer of Employment

To be bona fide, the offer must meet requirements set by the Texas Department of Insurance, Division of Workers' Compensation, in rule 129.6.

The Division established these requirements because making a bona fide offer of employment can affect an injured worker's income benefits. As an employer, extending a bona fide offer means giving your employee the opportunity to return to work. When deciding whether an offer is bona fide, the Division considers the following:

- Is the offer in writing?
- Is a copy of the most recent DWC-73 work status report attached?
- Does the offer specify the location at which the employee will be working, including the complete address?
- Does the offer state the wages the employee will be paid?
- Does the offer contain a description of the physical tasks and time requirements that the position entails?
- Is the work schedule similar to what the employee worked before the injury?
- Does the letter contain the statement "will only assign tasks consistent with the employee's physical abilities, knowledge, and skills"?
- Does the offer contain a statement that the employer "will provide training if necessary"?
- Is the offer at a location that is geographically accessible to the employee, including both the location of the work and the availability of transportation?
- Is the offer consistent with the doctor's certification of the employee's work abilities?
- Was the offer communicated to the employee in writing with all the above requirements included?
- Does the offer remain open for at least 7 days following the employee's receipt of the letter?
- Is the work status report (DWC-73) upon which the offer is based shown to be enclosed?

Once the letter is completed and has been reviewed by Texas Mutual, send the offer to the injured worker two ways by certified mail with return receipt requested and by regular mail. Additionally, please send a copy of the letter and mail receipt to the email address, mailing address or fax number listed below.
